APPELLATE PRACTICE MANUAL FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA COURT OF APPEALS

EDITED BY DAVID TEDHAMS

The Appellate Practice Manual for the District of Columbia Court of Appeals is a must for all practitioners litigating in this Court. This manual is a long overdue update of the "old" Appellate Practice Manual, a.k.a. "the Greenbook." While it is not dependent on its predecessor and can stand alone as a guide to practicing in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, this substantial revision would not have been possible if it had not had that solid foundation on which to build. Washington, DC attorney and Deputy Staff Counsel of the DC Court of Appeals David Tedhams and many Washington judges and lawyers draw from their experience to share practice pointers. Save time and expense in organizing your case and finding the practical, relevant and important information you need.
